I usually post what I learn in a related discussion in the comments and I even started a series of how-to videos if we are discussing how-to which is hard to find other places. I've been using the scroll function a lot lately since I feel more comfortable with how it works in Vim.Q: Meteor - hide Login and Logout buttons in Router in publish method

I would like to make some of my components using Template.dynamic and I need to hide the login and logout buttons from the router when I am in them. I have searched the internet, but can't find anything to help. Does anyone know how to implement something like this? I am using this package. I am using Iron-router. A: What you are looking for is passwordless login. You can do that through Accounts.onLogin.
