Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a method of fabricating a semiconductor device. More particularly, the present invention relates to a method of fabricating a capacitor of a dynamic random access memory (DRAM). 2. Description of the Related Art A conventional DRAM comprises a pad, a polysilicon layer formed on the pad, a dielectric layer formed on the polysilicon layer, and a plate layer formed on the dielectric layer. The capacitance of the capacitor is related to the area of the plate layer. Therefore, in order to increase the capacitance of the capacitor, the area of the plate layer must be increased. Unfortunately, increasing the area of the plate layer also increases the surface area of the DRAM, so that the entire size of the DRAM becomes larger. A conventional DRAM comprises a plurality of memory cells arranged in a matrix form on a semiconductor substrate. Each memory cell comprises a pair of bit lines and a storage capacitor. The bit lines and the storage capacitor are formed on the semiconductor substrate. The storage capacitor comprises a storage node, a dielectric layer, and a plate layer. The storage node is located on the semiconductor substrate between the pair of bit lines. The dielectric layer is formed on the semiconductor substrate and the storage node. The plate layer is formed on the dielectric layer and located on the storage node. The dielectric layer includes a bottom layer, a middle layer, and a top layer. The bottom layer is located between the storage node and the bit lines. The middle layer is located between the bottom layer
